Honor Coleman Priest Who Will Leave Pass For New Post

The Rev. Father Maurice McGreevy of the Holy Ghost Catholic Church in Coleman, left Wednesday for his new post at Bellevue, Alberta. Father McGreevy had been in Coleman for the past year.

Tuesday evening well over 100 members of the parish attended a farewell party in the Coleman Catholic Women's League. Speakers for the occasion were Dean A. Anderson of Blairmore, Father Carroll of Bellevue, the Rev. Father Traill of Natal, and Mayor Frank Aboushi of Coleman. The speakers were introduced by Steve Penney, who acted as master of ceremonies. During the evening Father McGreevy was presented with a purse of money, as a farewell gift, by Mrs. Anne Vasek on behalf of the parish.

In response Father McGreevy thanked his many friends and expressed his regrets at leaving Coleman. It is not yet known who will replace Father McGreevy at Coleman as no appointment has as yet been made.

William Chappell Laid To Rest

Masons and Elks sadly donned their full regalia Saturday afternoon to pay their last respects to their beloved fellow member, W. H. (Bill) Chappell of Blairmore, who left this world Wednesday, July 27. At their side practically the whole town, and many from a distance, crowded the United Church and streamed up the hill behind the impressive funeral cortege for the old timer who had left his mark so clearly in the community where he dwelt so actively for fifty years.

72 years old Mr. Chappell was born in Nottingham, England, Dec. 31, 1883, arriving on Canadian shores January 1904. In 1948 he retired from the chief accountancy at West Canadian Collieries, having sat as chairman on many sports committees, school board, war loan drive and assisted wholeheartedly with civic affairs. The leisure of his retirement was utilized into a driving force for United Church affairs, at which he became one of the most efficient church treasurers in Alberta. The present fine set up in the outstanding United Church work in Blairmore is considered basically due to his fine work on the church board and board of Stewards.

Pall bearers for the rites were Arthur Williams, Pete Montalbet, Lorne Chrysal, Harold Pinkney, Sam Bannan and A. E. Harper. Honorary bearers were R. Oakes, G. C. Cruickshank, Angus McDonald, Ken Thornton and Fred Hallworth of Belvoir.

Rev. Roy Chubb, United Church minister from Blairmore said the service in the church, "The Old Rugged Cross" was sung by A. McMurdo of Pincher Creek. The full Blairmore United Church choir sang their last respects with "Rock of Ages" and assisted the congregation in "I Do Not Ask, O Lord" and "Jesus Lover of My Soul."

Surviving to mourn Mr. Chappell are his wife Annie, two daughters, Mrs. R. R. Large, (Doreen), Mrs. R. Jack Kerr (Irene of Lethbridge, two sons, Albert and Clifford at Cowhead, B.C. and Vancouver, B.C., two sisters, Mrs. Howard Martin (Emily) still in Redditch, England and Mrs. Arthur Hicks (Edith) of Edmonton and eight grandchildren.

Lower left photo shows a few of the tents, made by the Stony Indians of the Alberta foothills, which form the base camp for both the trail hikers and trail riders.

Willow Drive Camp. Assn. Requests Pound District

At a recent meeting of the Willow Drive Community Association held on July 31 the meeting decided to request the Department of Agriculture to make the community into a pound district. The matter of the bridges spanning the river and creeks in Willow Drive came under discussion and a letter was written to N. E. Bradley District Engineer outlining the condition of these bridges which are in need of repairs. The resignation of the former President Mrs. E. McCartney was read and accepted. The matter of a playground for the children was brought up and after a letter was read from Mr. E. Ryman whose lot was under consideration as the site of this playground, the members felt that due to the lateness of the season and the unsettled condition existing at the present time it was decided to hold this matter in abeyance until next spring. The secretary W. Hammer and President Mr. Destebal gave reports of meetings that they had attended in regards to the Coleman Jubilee Committee. The Association decided to hold their annual picnic on Sunday, August 7 weather permitting.

Coleman Boys Hold Junior Carnival for Dunford Fund

It was carnival time for the youngsters living on the north streets of Coleman last week when six enterprising boys got together and staged a junior carnival to raise funds to assist the Spencer Dunford Operation fund. With rides at 1c and soft drinks for 2c these boys cleared a handsome profit of $12.80. Our hats are off to you young operators for your fine effort and your sincere appreciation for the need to help a fellow youth in not so fortunate circumstances. We are glad to state Spencer is back home after his operation and is coming along fine, it will be some time before he can go out and play as you boys can, but through your efforts Spencer will be able to come out one of these days and enjoy the wonderful things that all you fell lows do. Everyone who hears of your fine undertaking says "Thank You" Jonny Knight, Melvin Knight, Wayne Kryvov, Roger Fontana, Kenny Murdoch and Joe Aiello.

COLEMAN GRAVES BEING DESECRATED BY VANDALS

It has been brought to the attention of this paper that graves in the Coleman cemeteries are being damaged by vandals. Flowers and shrubs are being pulled up by their roots, and in some cases being dug up. Tombstones are being scratched and written upon. To you who are responsible for this desecration, you may think that it is smart and that the last resting place of departed loved ones is only a place for you to exert the meanness that is in your heart. Do you understand the loving care and work that goes into the care of these final resting places of the departed? If so why do you do these things? We doubt that anything that we can say will reach your understanding but if we do will you exert as much energy in helping to keep these graves beautiful? We certainly hope you will. It is hoped that anyone who sees vandals at work in our cemeteries will immediately inform Chief of Police Corsan, and I feel that they will certainly be brought to account for their deeds. We are not going to say that all of this vandalism is being done by misguided youths, but that older persons have had a hand in this disrespect for the dead. You may not respect the living, but you must have some respect in your heart for the dead, so let's see you show it. This paper will do all in its power to see that the person or persons responsible for this vandalism are brought to account.

Summer Highway Safety

There was a time when the people living in rural areas used to complain about big city people driving out of a Sunday afternoon and pecknicking on their country lawns.

Today, the complaint isn't so much about the pecknickers as about the drivers who in their rush to get away from the heat of the city, hit for the open road right after work. Tired from a busy day in office or factory, they gather their families, load up the trunk and start off for lakeshore or mountains. They may not realize it, but they are among the greatest traffic hazards and are responsible for many of the 57,000 traffic accidents that occur on Canadian highways during the summer holidays.

There are, of course, many reasons for traffic accidents. Alfred L. Mosley, a psychologist at the Harvard School of Public Health, recently completed a series of tests on fatigued drivers and proved that every driver who is over-tired is risking his own and other people's lives when he takes the wheel. A co-operative colleague stayed up all night and then using an instrument called a "Roadometer," drove for several hours while the psychologist measured his reactions. Slowness on the brakes, clutching the wheel and other bad driving habits were noted as fatigue increased. A cup of coffee and a cigarette provided necessary but not lasting pickups.

This was an extreme case, of course, but it demonstrated the importance of avoiding drowsiness when driving and it led to a number of safe driving rules which could help to reduce the toll of summer accidents.

1. Don't start a trip right after work. Get a good night's rest and start fresh in the morning.

2. Plan a coffee break every 100 miles or so. If there are few roadside stands or restaurants, take a thermos of hot coffee with you. Pull off to the side of the road, drink the coffee and get out of the car to stretch your legs.

3. Avoid driving at night whenever possible. The most dangerous period is between 5 and 8 p.m.

4. If you feel drowsy, pull off the road and have a nap.

5. If possible, have another driver along to spell you at the wheel.

6. Observe all traffic rules — but, most important, stop driving when you feel tired.

Dolls to be Raffled on August 15

The pair of cowboy dolls that are being raffled by the R.C.E.M.E. Band will be drawn for on Monday, August 15.

This pair of dolls dressed by the Band were to have been drawn sometimes ago but owing to delay in return of tickets had to be delayed until this time.

Balloon Draws Interest in 'Pass

BLAIRMORE — Many eyes in the Crow's Nest Pass were turned skyward Wednesday to view a balloon moving in the sky.

The balloon, when viewed through binoculars, appeared to be of a silver color which changed to various other hues. A box-like affair hung by a netting over the balloon was discernible when viewed through glasses. The balloon, it is thought, is used for studying wind currents and other weather conditions.

The balloon was many thousands of feet in the air and was travelling in a southwesterly direction.

During the past few years several weather balloons have been found in the Crow's Nest Pass area and have been returned to various meteorological stations.

Alberta Hunting Regulations

The hunter's Alberta will have a new look in 1955. Not only that, but this year's hunting regulations, released today by the Canadian Wildlife Service of the Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources show that there'll be lots for sportsmen in the old province to be happy about this autumn. The open season on migratory game birds has been extended, and the bag and possession limits for ducks have been raised in this province.

The new look comes from the inauguration of a zoning system, which divides Alberta into two hunting areas. The dividing line is the 56th parallel west from the Saskatchewan boundary to the 5th meridian, north on the 5th meridian to the 58th parallel, and west along the 58th parallel to British Columbia.

Open season in the northern zone for ducks, geese, rails and coots, except wood ducks and Ross's geese, begins on September 1 and ends November 30. In the southern zone it's legal to shoot the same species from September 7 to December 10. Last year the season didn't open until September 14 and closed December 4. The season on Wilson's snipe in the northern zone opens September 1 and closes September 30, and in the southern zone this species is under hunting pressure from September 7 to October 8.

The daily bag limit for ducks has been increased to 10, with an increase in the possession limit to 40 birds, of which not more than 20 may be species other than mallard. Other daily limits remain the same as last year — five geese, 10 rails and coots (in the aggregate), and eight Wilson's snipe. Shooting methods and weapons similar to those in 1954, appear in the Migratory Bird Regulations, and on posters which will be available before the opening of the 1955 season.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rivers of Victoria, B.C. were recent visitors in Coleman after touring to the Banff National Park. While here they dropped in on old friends Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McDonald.

Leon Noli is greeted by singer Mick Micheli

HELPS FREE INNOCENT MAN—Due in large measure to the untiring efforts of the French singer, Mick Micheli, a man who was sentenced to hard labor in a French penal colony in 1909, has been released and his innocence established. Forty-six years ago, Leon Noli, was accused of killing a man in Toulon. He was, despite his determined plea of innocence, sentenced to life imprisonment and condemned to the penal colony of Guiana. He escaped, joined the Belgian navy and when his ship put in at Toulon, he sought the man whom he had always claimed had killed the victim. This man, however, had died in action at Ypres. Noli went back to the penal colony. The case attracted wide attention and singer, Mick Micheli, who is also a composer, formed "The Committee of Friends of Leon Noli" and popularized one of her songs in his aid. Eventually, the case was re-opened and Noli released.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

BIG DEAL

By E. R. KARR

WALKING to his office this bright afternoon, George King, the real estate magnate, passed a lot auction at which—as he would say modestly enough—his interests were to be expressed. But the immediate truth would come from the arrogant set of his face, which told you that his interests were confidently calculated to over-ride the interests of others.

Because George King considered it indecorous for a man of his position to be seen at a property auction and also very poor business since his presence would indicate to some people something special and thus raise the bid, he ordinarily would have passed on. But now he stopped, amazed to notice that the bidding had started his agent Ross was to be seen nowhere. As he looked about and listened to the rising bid, his anger grew until he thought savagely, "Where could that fool Ross be? He knows that I've got to have this lot. If he's not here in two minutes, I'll fire him."

Stronger to see George King at a property auction, but practically a mirage also to see Tom Martin side up to him.

Unnoticed, Tom Martin said, "Hello, George. Long time no see." It was noticeable that he didn't offer his hand.

For a brief moment, brief as the shutting of a trap, George King's face lost its olympian composure. "Hello, Tom," he said coldly. "I'm glad to see that you've finished your debut to society. By the way, did you happen to see Ross any place?"

"Last saw Ross coming out of his office about an hour ago."

Under his breath George King cursed his disappointment, listening carefully to the bid which had reached fifteen thousand dollars. He saw that the bidders were dropping out and that soon he himself would have to bid. He heard Tom Martin's curt laugh, voice.

then his attention—demanding voice.

"Most people, except a few like you and the judge, thought that I'd pay my debt to society by making restitution, and since then doing so well in a perfectly legal fashion that I seemed to get in some peoples way."

"You shouldn't have turned me in, George," Tom Martin said as he smiled at him.

In silence, George King stared toward the auctioneer. Only two persons were now bidding at twenty thousand dollars.

George King turned a cold look on Tom Martin. "It was my duty as a citizen to turn you in when I discovered you were wanted for a crime."

Again Tom Martin laughed curiously. "The ten months I did wasn't much, George, but long enough to keep me out of one of the biggest real estate deals this town's seen. Because I had the inside of the track on that lot, you were afraid I'd beat you as I had on other big deals shortly before that one. You weren't interested in turning a criminal in, George. You were interested in turning in a tough business competitor."

"Nonsense!" George King retorted, then interrogated with defensive pride: "Since you couldn't know the extent of my interests in those so-called big deals, how could you know that you beat me?"

The auctioneer's voice rang out for a final bid. "Twenty-two thousand," George King said, ignoring Tom Martin and watching the faces turn toward him. Immediately a few who knew him jumped back into the bidding but dropped out again at twenty-five thousand, leaving only the man from whom he had originally taken the bid.

"Twenty-six thousand," George King said, thinking that by raising the bid a thousand dollars he would frighten out his opponent whose previous bid was four or five thousand above the ordinary value of the lot. But the other bidder was not frightened—nor even at thirty thousand dollars. Nor at forty.

An intense silence had fallen on the crowd, as the people shifted their eyes between the bidders. Even those inexperienced in realty matters sensed the unusual. By the time the determined bidders reached seventy thousand dollars, which everyone recognized as a fantastic price, they were listened to with the awe ordinarily reserved for the great. Still the bid grew. Neither man showed signs of weakening, and the stimulated crowd began to release its excitement by cheering the bidders as if they were prizefighters. Indeed, both were as flushed as prizefighters. George King intermittently touched his sleeve to his forehead while his opponent repeatedly dabbed his face with a perspiration-soaked handkerchief. Finally at George King's bid of one hundred twenty thousand dollars his perspiring opponent, with a weak shrug of resignation, turned and walked away.

"Sold at one hundred twenty thousand," shouted the related auctioneer, and the crowd roared its approval of George King. Tom Martin, who had been watching the bidding in an amused silence, observed sarcastically, "Apparently you've struck a big deal, eh, George?"

The words found their mark. With a vicious sneer George King retorted, "What would you do if you were me and wanted the lot—let the other bidder buy?"

"Certainly!" Tom Martin said quietly. "When I met Ross before, he asked me if I'd heard anything about your attitude toward this lot. I said I'd heard from others that you were very much interested. Quite naturally, since everyone in the game knows he's your agent and he wanting to get you the lot as cheap as possible, he decided later to send in his place someone unknown. I see he sent the out-of-town agent who was with him when we met, the sweating guy from whom you won the bid. A big deal, eh, George?"

Paper by-product is dust layer
INTERNATIONAL PALLS, Minn.—A paper by-product is the latest road-building product, says a United Press story.
An amber-colored liquid resulting during the manufacture of paper has been proved capable of preventing dust when sprayed on unpaved road surfaces. The liquid also proves useful as a binder for underbase gravel on roads to be paved, increasing the load-bearing strength of the surface, and in reclaiming the surfaces of bituminous roads.
Lignin and carbohydrates dissolved out of wood during the pulping process give the liquid its adhesive qualities, demonstrated here during tests last year.

Pay careful attention birds on the range

Watch all the birds carefully while on the range and see that they are getting to the feeders. Place feed and water at some point away from the main flock for the timid birds. Many producers follow the practice of putting feed and water on the outside roosts which assures that the timid birds are fed.

Range shelters should be moved quite often to new ground. If the pasture growth becomes too high, occasional moving will prove helpful. Long rank growth is of little benefit to the birds since they are unable to digest fibre. Moving also lets the sunlight through to the ground and helps kill disease germs. The greatest food value to poultry on the range is in new growth.

Poultry ranges may be sown to either temporary or permanent pasture crops. Sometimes a combination of the two is used effectively. When this is done the two are run side by side. The range shelters and feeders are put on the temporary pasture and so located that the permanent pasture is not tramped out and killed around the shelters. Oats, corn or rape make good crops for a temporary pasture. Sow in a series of light sowings so that there is a continuous crop of young succulent feed coming up. An alfalfa-brome mixture makes good permanent pasture and is advisable for increased yield and a better balanced diet.

Shade for the birds should also be provided. If trees or brush are not available, plant about three rows of sunflowers, close together every 30 or 40 feet.

Restricted feeding on the range can also be practiced to advantage. If birds are maturing too quickly, close the mash hoppers except for an hour each morning and evening, and they will be forced to use more pasture and grain.

WATER SAFETY

Lakes and rivers often become polluted and dangerous for drinking or swimming purposes. It is a good idea for parents planning to take the family to a summer camp to find out from local health authorities whether the water is free from pollution and safe for the children to swim in. Water from pumps or wells at any resort season.

Mount Allenby, 9,500-foot peak in Alberta, was named after World War I Field Marshall Lord Allenby.

New Banff museum boasts one of finest Indian exhibits

BANFF, Alta. — The pine-log Loxton Museum officially opened here in mid-June contains what has been called one of the finest Indian and natural history exhibits in the continent.

The collection is largely a tribute by western Indians to Norman Loxton, one of western Canada's most colorful personalities. He is regarded by Indians of the plains as one of their greatest white friends.

Mr. Loxton, now 79, has known the Indians since childhood in upper Fort Garry. They were his first playmates. At 16 he was apprenticed to the Indian agent at Fort Portage, now Kenora, Ont.

Vigorous campaigner
During five years as publisher and editor of the Banff Crag and Canyon he campaigned vigorously for better land for the Stoney of the Rocky Mountains, and supported the Indian Association of Alberta in their fight for Indian rights.

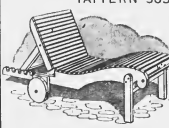

During the years grateful Indians gave him the finest specimens of native handicraft along with curios handed down from their ancestors. The museum had its beginning in the Indian trading post which Loxton established early in the century as an outlet for Indian work.

Gradually, the building became full of articles of quill, fibre root, birchbark and clay pipes and woven baskets. There is an early 19th century tee-pee, a perfectly preserved birchbark canoe, dozens of examples of tribal dress, horns from many animals, and a large

Your neighborhood hobbyist with a hand or jig saw can cut out the shaped pieces and the wheels while you wait. The back rest adjusts to any angle desired from vertical to flat. Bolts may be removed to take it apart for winter storage. Pattern 385 may be ordered separately for 35c or it will be included in the Porch and Terrace Furniture package of five standard size patterns for $1.50 postpaid.

As the parakeet cage made of dowels which was presented here some months ago has proven so popular with bird lovers this canary cage is offered as something equally attractive. Instead of the dowels chrome-plated wire is used. A hand-powered pin drill may be used for making the many holes for the wires but a small power drill would speed up the job. In addition to the actual-size layout of the pattern gives directions with sketches for making various accessories such as swings, drinking fountains but standard items available at shops selling pets and supplies may be used. Price of pattern 432 is only 35c.

Meaning of 'Canada' is old and controversial question

The meaning of the name "Canada" is an old and controversial question. There are several more or less reasonable derivations of the word suggested.

The Algonquian word "canata," meaning "swetome," is supposed to have been used by Indians when they first saw Cartier. There is the Spanish "acaná," meaning "there is nothing here," which the Spaniards are likely to have used when they saw no traces of gold as they skirted the shores of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Then there is the Portuguese word, "canada," meaning "narrow passage" and implying that the Portuguese long before Cartier's time sailed up the St. Lawrence and gave the name "Canada" to the country through which the comparatively narrow river (narrow above Quebec) flows.

The Canadian Board of Geographical Names is inclined to think a more reasonable explanation is found in Cartier's report on his second voyage of exploration to these shores. In that report he includes a list of Iroquois words, among them being "Canada," meaning a village, a collection of tents, or an encampment. "Cartier's report," says the board, "appears the best evidence produced on the subject" and it thinks the Iroquois origin of "Canada" may be accepted as correct. But it discusses other theories.

The Spanish 'Acana' story attributed to early Spanish explorers who found a gold mine to hold considerable appeal but little was written of the early Spanish trips to these shores and no clear-cut or definite reference exists to support this theory. In fact many historians now question whether the Spanish ever made these early trips about which information is so vague.

Biblical Canaan mentioned

"There is another belief that the name came from the biblical Canaan of Canaan, which was in New France in 1621. The biblical Canaan is also mentioned."

"It has been suggested, too, that Canada was an Indian proper name for which it is not possible to ascertain the meaning."

In respect to the old Portuguese word, "canada," meaning strait, the board says that if explorers of that nation applied the word to the narrowing of the St. Lawrence at Quebec before Cartier's visit and if the Indians passed this word to Cartier, this is yet another theory advanced on the subject. However, it has never been established that the early explorers from Portugal covered the territory.

We know as much now as we are likely to know on this matter, and the Iron William, backed by so substantial an authority as the Names Board, perhaps will come to be taken as the last word.

When the chemical or repellent is discovered, and if it can be produced in quantity, it could be used to warn fish away from polluted water.

It could even be used, Dr. Idler said, to corral the fish or to guide them up ladders or away from turbines.

"We don't know yet what it is that hails the fish," he said. "But I think we should have it within two years."

"We tested the rinse from hands at a falls on Vancouver Island and it was certainly successful. But we have to find out what it is from the hands that cause the reaction and then produce it synthetically."

Dr. Idler presented his paper to the biochemistry section of the Ninth Annual Conference of the B.C. Academy of Science at the University of British Columbia.

William Peter Koury Marries Blaimore Girl

A wedding of happy significance took place in St. Anne's Roman Catholic Church, Blaimore, Saturday, July 30, when two young people, born and raised in the Pass put a fairytale ending to a childhood friendship with the ringing of wedding bells.

The beautifully solemn rites of the double-ring ceremony were performed for Mary Cursio, youngest daughter of Mrs. Assunta Cursio, Blaimore, and William Peter Koury, eldest son of James Koury, Coleman. Very Rev. Dean A. Anderson, assisted by Kenneth Koury, brother of the groom, as altar boy. Proceeding down the aisle to a flower dacked background lit by glowing candles, the bride was a delightful picture in classical white nylon organza. Her ballerina length gown with three full skirts over taffeta was topped by an intricately fine diagonally pleated halter bodice. The shoulders left embroidered with louver's knots was caught in a net coronet composed of delicately pleated fan shells alternating with rows of minute white velvet lilacs. Her red rose bridal bouquet of buds and fern nestling in victorian lace and cascading over her hand made a glowing spot of color against the white of the gown and the dark suit of her brother-in-law, who accompanied her to the altar and gave her in marriage.

Also in full skirted ballerina gowns, the two bridesmaids made a warm complimentary color scheme of marine blue and peony pink. Each matching headdress was a slim bandeau of soft feathers in the same shades as their gowns. Mrs. Ethel Kubik, maid of honor, carried red rosebuds in lace, and Miss Elaine Gurine pink carnations in a similar Victorian bouquet. Rocco Blafore sang "Wonderful Mother," and Mrs. G. Bias presided at the organ. Assisting the groom was best man Thomas Koury, his brother, and groomsmen Fredrick Joseph.

Mrs. Assunta Cursio, mother of the bride chose a black dress of crepe, trimmed in velvet and rhinestones, contrasting to her white fitted mesh hat, also touched with velvet and two white silk roses. She carried a corsage of pink tipped carnations tied with pink and black ribbon. Mrs. James Koury, stepmother of the groom, who received with Mrs. Cursio at the reception which followed at Turtle Mountain, was gowned in pink lace and carried pink carnations.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Tommy Koury, best man, and responded to by the groom. In charge of the guest book and gifts was Miss Elaine Gurine. Following the wedding banquet at the Turtle Mountain Hotel, a wedding reception in the hotel ballroom for a hundred and forty-five guests honored the new married couple.

The festive U-shaped table was decorated with red carnations in powder blue vases and dominated by a three tier wedding cake, ornamented with silver leaves topped with icing roses and two love-birds under a festooned canopy each holding a ring symbolic of the immediately previous double ring ceremony. The Kubic Sisters at piano and accordion supplied the music for the festive singing and dancing, which ended with wedding breakfast at the Koury home in Coleman.

The groom was honored by the presence of the complete staff of Hammill Motors, where he has worked since leaving the Pass to live in Calgary. The five co-employees and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hammill motored down on Saturday returning to their Calgary homes Sunday. The bride also was honored with her employer manager, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leitch from the Calgary office of the Alberta Department of Highways where she has worked since her graduation from Mount Royal business school. Out-of-town members of the family wedding party also included Mrs. Cursio's brother, his wife and two daughters, Mr. Tony Montamuro, Kimberley, with Florence and Margaret, his married daughter, Mrs. Holtz, also of Kimberley, and daughter Margaret's fiancé Ronald Evans.

A sister of the bride, Caroline, now Mrs. William Spence came with her husband from Kimberley. Mr. and Mrs. Hermine Lester of Kimberley, and Mr. and Mrs. K. Umbrach, Calgary family friends, also stayed over Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Pete Chudobiak, relatives of the groom came from Lethbridge for the affair.

On the departure of the happy couple for a wedding trip and honeymoon to Seattle, Washington, the bride was attired in a goingaway costume of soft turquoise blue embroidered brocade, a one piece dress with matching coat. Her small hat of the same color was milan straw, and she carried the red rose corsage from the centre of her wedding bouquet. On their return Mr. and Mrs. William Koury will be at home to their friends in Calgary.

Have You a Question On Unemployment Ins.

Following are some questions with answers which may be of interest to you.

Q. I am 22 years old. I started at the mines in 1934. Was employed at Cadomin, Lacombe and Robb up till 1953. That year I went to Vancouver, B.C., and while at the coast I got into trouble. My own carelessness and bad company landed me in jail for a year. When I got my parole last November I applied for insurance benefit at Edson. My application was turned down. I have been drawing very little benefit since I started to work in 1948. For short periods only. I will admit, the year spent in jail I paid nothing to the insurance fund, but I did for years. If there is anything you can do for me regarding this matter it will be greatly appreciated.

A. To qualify for benefit you must have paid at least 180 daily contributions in the two years immediately preceding the date of your claim, of which 60 contributions must have been paid in the last year or 45 in the last half year. In some circumstances, the two-year period may be extended up to a maximum of four years, such as a period spent in non-insurable employment, or if you were engaged in business on your own account or if you were insured of work because of sickness or injury. You evidently could not fulfill any of the above requirements and therefore no extension could be allowed to you.

Q. I have been paying unemployment insurance contributions since its inception. I drew benefit for four weeks in 1954. I was married last year and I worked five weeks this year between February and April. Am I entitled to benefit?

A. You would be unable to qualify for benefit during the two years immediately following your marriage unless

- you were discharged by your employer because of his policy or to keep women in his employ after marriage, or
- you had worked for at least 60 days subsequent to the date of your marriage, or
- you had become the breadwinner on account of your husband having died or become incapacitated for work or become permanently separated.

Q. I am working in a hospital. Why are we not covered by unemployment insurance in any hospital of the province of Quebec or elsewhere?

A. The Act excludes employment in a hospital which is not operated for purpose of gain, unless the hospital elects to insure its employees. The exclusion is due chiefly to the strong representations made by the hospitals that the cost of the contributions payable would cause additional hardship since most hospitals at present are unable to pay their full operating expenses.

Q. Explain why a claimant who finished a benefit year with a number of days still to his credit may find himself in a position where he cannot collect these unused days.

A. The Act allows a period of one year in which to draw benefit to which a claimant is entitled at the time of his application. In most cases a claimant who does not draw all this benefit in that time is able to immediately re-qualify.

Q. I am moving from Montreal to the west. What should I do about my unemployment insurance?

A. If you are drawing benefit in Montreal and intend to move to the west, you must tell the local office in Montreal what you intend to do. As soon as you arrive at your destination, you must report to the local office there and give all the information necessary in order to have your claim transferred to that office. If you are simply moving from one job to another, take your insurance book with you and give it to your new employer.

Q. I am changing my work, and the new job is not in insurable employment. What should I do about my insurance book?

A. You should send or bring in your insurance book to the nearest local office of the Commission for safe-keeping and ask for a receipt.

Q. Can the money paid to the Unemployment Insurance Commission be withdrawn when one ceases to be insured after changing jobs? In the negative, is the money credited to us in case we would be insured again in the future?

A. The contributions previously made on your behalf are not refunded but they remain to your credit for a limited period and are taken into account in computing your future benefit rights, should you subsequently return to insurable employment and later be unemployed and in need of benefit.

From The London Times

(Friday, August 18, 1954)
(Waterloo enemies fighting together.)

Most people will be aware that the emperor Napoleon I gave directions by his will for the distribution of a large sum of money among those who had fought the battles of France under his command. Circumstances prevented for a considerable period the operation of this bequest, but it has at length been put in the way of accomplishment by the present Emperor of the French, and in the official journal of Tuesday last appeared the necessary ordinances for the purpose. Now, whatever may have been the speculations of Napoleon I on this point, we may very safely conclude that he never anticipated the fulfilment of his wishes more than 30 years after his decease, through the agency of a Napoleon III, seated, by the Grace of God and the will of the people, on the throne which he had himself filled. But another feature of this incident is more remarkable still. At the very moment when, by virtue of unexpected events this Imperial legacy to the wounded at Waterloo is at last made recoverable, the comrades and successors of the very soldiers are fighting shoulder to shoulder with the men who were then their enemies. The will of the great Napoleon has only taken effect at a period when all the ideas and combinations of his age have been utterly superseded—when a French empire has been recognized as symbolical, not of war, but of peace, when Frenchmen and Englishmen are the closest allies, and when an antagonism which shallow politicians called eternal has been exchanged for a friendship based on that most substantial of all grounds, the common convictions of the two nations.

The Times recalled the cordiality with which the Orleanist monarchy was recognized after 1830. In fact the Entente Cordiale came into existence under Louis Philippe. The cordiality of The Times had been sometimes chilled in the interval.

THE QUEEN'S CORALS

Loan to Natural History Museum (By our Museums correspondent.) The Queen has placed on permanent loan at the British Museum (Natural History) the collections of corals from the Great Barrier Reef and of shells from the Maldiv Islands which were given to her during her Commonwealth tour early this year. The corals were a gift from the people of Queensland, and the shells from the people of the Maldiv Archipelago.

The Natural History Museum has, also, acquired by bequest the late Surgeon-Commander Malcolm Cameron's important collection of beetles of the family Staphylinidae, or rove beetles. These beetles are of world-wide distribution, and are marked by having short wing-cases. Some 20,000 species are known, the most familiar British kind being the Devil's Coachman. Commander Cameron, who died a month ago, devoted the last 30 years of his life to studying and writing about this group of beetles. His collection contains 35,000 specimens of 9,200 species, of which 3,300 species are represented by the "type specimens"—a "type specimen" being the actual example from which a species was first described in scientific literature. Type specimens are therefore of primary importance for all further work on the groups to which they belong.

* Canadian: At Virden, Man., Tom Gerrier thinks that he has chalked up a record in curling: from December 6 to March 30 he curled a total of 173 games. . . Dauphin, Man., Herald tells of an 87 year old lady who declares maple syrup she gets from Ontario doesn't taste like it used to when she made it three years ago; feels it is made now so that no bugs of chips can get into it. . . Two sturdy cow moose on an obvious mysterious mission ambled across Harry Scott's farm in full view of spectators, report the Innisfail (Alta.) Province; a shetland pony put the intruders on the run. . . Frank F. Novak of Cana. Sask., told Nipawin Journal that one of his white rock chickens walks standing straight up just like a person. . . Over 350 people travelled by tractor, trucks, cars, on horseback and on foot to the Red Curtis auction farm sale, reports Newmarket Era & Express (Ont.); two ladies sat on bales of hay on small trailer drawn by tractor. . . The show must go on: Rev. J. Thompson, United Church minister of Aylsham, Sask., made it to the service at Aborfield, crossed the swollen Carriv River (flood high) in hip waders, then atop the bridge rail and atop the bridge itself, was met at the other side by parishioners who drove him the remainder of the way. . . This turkey solved the drumstick problem, one was brought into the Esthazy (Sask.) newspaper of fee which had four legs, although it didn't seem to be getting much mileage out of its extra appendages. . . Mrs. Fyke, 91, at Sceptre, Sask., not 32 hills of spuds in early, it is reported in the Swift Current Sun; she did the work herself. . . At North Battleford, Sask., Mayor Maher got an airmail letter from the Lord Mayor of Dublin, who opened the epistle with, "That's a great old Irish name you have, James Maher." . . At Halstead, Man., Edmund Heinrichs says that his cat Nellie goes for rides on the back of his horse and this companionship has been going on for two years now with obvious delight to both animals. They do more than singing at luncheons: The Kiwanis club of Three Rivers, (Que.) gave a spanking new modern ambulance for the St. Maurice Valley Division of Quebec Society for Crippled Children.

* Pentticon (B.C.) Herald: " . . . government subsidies have an expensive habit of continuing long after the problem they were supposed to solve has disappeared." . . Elmwood (Man.) Herald: "Fact is every penny of Ottawa's revenue dollar comes out of pockets of Canadian taxpayers. Breakdown of ways in which it is collected merely reveals ingenuity of politicians and bureaucrats in conspiring to devise ways and means of getting the most feathers with the least squawk." . . Davidson (Sask.) Leader: "There has been, in almost every small town in Canada, at least one teacher whose honest God-fearing presentation of the basic principles of learning has laid a foundation on which men and women he or she has taught have built lives which were lived in the service of their country and their God. . . We owe them a debt greater than we may hope to pay." . . Abbotsford (B.C.) News: "If we assess its appeal correctly, the farm union movement would cut across the producer solidarity and threaten agriculture with a confusion of representative voices. That we think would be a short sighted policy and one which would cost the producer a great deal."

* Kentville (N.S.) Advertiser: "It usually transpires that people get exactly what they want most. A considerable portion of Canadians want high wages and the welfare state. They are getting it and they should be happy. If they do not like the unemployment which under such circumstances is inevitable, it seems rather silly to complain to the government." . . Yorkton (Sask.) Enterprise: "Scarcely a week goes by that the Enterprise does not receive a letter warning of the danger of atomic warfare and the lack of our democratic leaders to appreciate and accept the olive branch being offered to us by the Communists. Doubtless many of these writers are sincere but all to frequently they are acting as dupes for Communists working in our country."

* On Premier Frosts bid at the provincial-federal conference for national health insurance, the Trenton Courier-Advocate thinks, "It may seem overly cynical even to suspect that suggested benefits offered with apparent high-mindedness, might be related to the possibility that election days might be in the offing."

Letter to the Editor

July 22, 1955.

Dear Mr. Holstead,

The date on this postal note is much earlier but I had hoped to walk in and hand it to you in person.

Joe and I had planned to spend our silver anniversary in Coleman but could not get the time off. Then we planned to go in July or August but the doctor said the altitude might be risky for Joe's heart - so we won't take the chance.

He has been fine and working ever since we came East.

We are very disappointed as we had looked forward to visiting Coleman and our friends. The Journal is a big help but the names are getting less familiar with the years as could be expected.

We were also sorry there was no account of John Petrunick's funeral. His passing was a great shock as we had received a letter saying he might visit us soon.

We are all well and have two grand children. Joe and I are leaving tomorrow by motor to Port Arthur and Fort Frances.

The welcome mat is still out for friends from Coleman.

Hoping this finds you and yours in the best of health, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
Virginia E. Petrunick,
St. David's, Ont.

Oil Company To Change Name

CALGARY, July 28 - The Socony-Vacuum Oil Company of Canada Limited will change its corporate name to Mobil Oil of Canada Limited on August 1, H. R. Moorman, general manager of the company announced today.

Its headquarters office in Calgary, formerly the Barron Building have been renamed the Mobil Oil Building. The company will continue its exploration and producing activities in the Canadian West and its automotive and industrial lubricants will continue to be distributed by Imperial Oil Limited.

"The chief purpose of the change", Mr. Moorman declared, "is to link our company's name more closely with our products, many of which contain the word 'mobil' in their brand name. Our products have been marketed in Canada for more than 40 years, and we were concerned that many people did not connect the products with the company. We hope our new name will make this identification clearer."

Mobil Oil of Canada has been hunting for oil in Canada for more than 12 years, during which time its staff has grown from less than a dozen to nearly 800, more than five out of six of them being Canadians. Its largest crude oil discovery is Pembina field, near Edmonton, probably the largest field found thus far in Canada. The company also has production elsewhere in Alberta and in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and British Columbia. It is exploring for oil in these provinces and in the North West Territories.

Red Cross Notes

Dairy business has become highly mechanized operation

Days of the sun-kissed milkmaid have passed and the dairy industry has become a mechanized business contributing nearly $30,000,000 annually to Manitoba farmers.

Today dairying is big business with about 70 creameries operating in the province.

Six cheese factories are producing cheese for local consumption and for marketing in other western centres. Their products are popular, their outlets expanding.

Big production

Each year Manitoba produces more than 1,000,000,000 pounds of milk—25,000,000 pounds of butter, 2,000,000 gallons of ice cream, 1,500,000 pounds of cheddar cheese and over 1,000,000 pounds of cottage and cream cheese.

As yet no condensed or evaporated milk is produced within the province but powdered skim milk is processed for local use and for export.

Long fairs

Manitoba butter and cheese has long been famous as a prize winner at national fairs. About 98 percent of the butter produced is first grade and dairying experts are constantly working to perfect its quality and increase its quantity.

Cheddar is the principal product of Manitoba's cheese factories but in later years they have presented a successful assortment of specialties, including Trappist.

Ready markets

Ready markets have been found for these from coast to coast. The Red River district is the largest dairying area in the province.

However, Winnipeg, Springfield and Midlake regions are increasing production at a competitive rate.

Funny and Otherwise

The young bride proudly placed her first turkey on the Christmas table. "Ah that looks wonderful," said her husband. "What do you stuff it with?" "Stuff it! Why darling this one wasn't hollow."

Delivery boy: Here's the fish your mother ordered. It's C.O.D.

Little girl: You don't have to spell out for me—and anyway she ordered salmon.

The stage troupe had been reduced to playing in small towns. One of the players had quit and a rookie was put in his place. The manager was getting desperate. The financial situation was acute.

"I want you to go out there boldly," he admonished the youthful actor. "You're not afraid of that audience are you?"

"Certainly not," came back the protégé. "We got them out-nimbered."

The late Thomas E. Edison had many peculiarities, one of which extended to the matter of hiring help. He believed that prospective employees should pass some kind of written test. These were often tricky. Here is a sample:

"You are down to your last 10 dollars, and without prospect of getting more. You are playing poker with a stranger. He stays pat on the first hand. After the draw you have three eights. There is fifty cents in the pot and the stranger bets a quarter. What would you do?"

One applicant simply wrote: "He got the job."

A farm couple taking in the sights of the nation's capital at night passed by the White House and the man asked for a minute looking the place over from one end to another.

The wife, expecting some wondrous remark, was startled when her spouse snorted: "Hmph! For a family of two they shore burn enough lights."

"You must drink hot water with your whiskey," the doctor told his patient, "otherwise you mustn't take it at all."

"But how shall I get the water," queried the patient. "My wife won't let me have it for the whiskey punch."

"Tell her you want a shave," the doctor said.

The next day the doctor called and asked the wife how the patient was. "He's clean mad," she replied. "He's shaving every ten minutes."

Two dairies were engaged in an advertising war. One company hired a racer to drive around town in a car with a large sign reading: "This daredevil drinks our milk."

The rival company came out with a sign twice as large: "You don't have to be a daredevil to drink our milk."

A young woman, looking over a flat, was unable to decide whether her husband would like it.

"I shouldn't let that worry you," said the agent, "it's much easier to get a new husband these days than a new flat."

Suitable variety of early maturing oats being sought

Some of the aims of the plant breeder in his search for better oat varieties are outlined here by E. C. Lowe, Cerealist at the Lacombe Experimental Station. Victory and Eagle have long been grown in Alberta and their yield performance has been largely responsible for their popularity. Their late maturity, however, offsets to some extent this valuable feature of high yield.

Since Eagle on summerfallow at Lacombe requires an average of 115 days to reach maturity, frost damage is something of a hazard. Laramie, the earliest oat variety recommended for Alberta, requires an average of only 102 to 104 days to mature but its potential yield of some 30 percent below that of Eagle leaves much to be desired.

What the research men are striving for is a combination of the yield of Eagle with the earliness and kernel type of Laramie. Following the crossing of these two varieties at Lacombe in 1950, selection and re-crossing have been going on towards development of varieties with the desirable qualities of both.

Satisfactory yield in a new variety is the ultimate goal of the plant breeder but other things are required. A variety of oats for central Alberta, says Mr. Lowe, should be a desirable kernel, high nutritional value, reasonable earliness and good resistance to lodging. Plumpness of kernel adds to the attractiveness of the sample and lessens the difficulty of removing weed seeds.

High resistance to lodging is another feature sought in the oat breeding at Lacombe. This character depends not only on strong stems but also on the plant's root system, Mr. Lowe reports. Lodging requires an average of 115 days to reach maturity, frost damage is something of a hazard. Laramie, the earliest oat variety recommended for Alberta, requires an average of only 102 to 104 days to mature but its potential yield of some 30 percent below that of Eagle leaves much to be desired.

Disease resistance is another requirement to be kept in mind. Although diseases of oats have not to date been too serious a problem in central Alberta, the workers at Lacombe are fully aware of disease resistance as a factor in the breeding program.

Inbred resistance, however, is not the only defence against diseases of the oat crop. Crop rotations, seed of good quality and seed treatment will continue their importance in the reduction of crop disease losses.

Vancouver plans Grey Cup curling 'spiel

VANCOUVER.—A promise of "everything except Grey Cup tickets" has been made to curlers who will compete in the first $10,000 Totem bonspiel here Nov. 20-25.

The biggest bonspiel in British Columbia history, the event will be held in conjunction with Vancouver's first Grey Cup game.

It is expected to draw 200 rink—half of them from other parts of Canada. Accommodation has already been obtained for the visitors.

Play will start on Sunday, Nov. 20 and the winners of all eight events will be declared by Friday night, the eve of the big game.

"We have already been assured of 25 rinks from Calgary," says bonspiel president Dr. J. Ross Maclean. "There undoubtedly will be others from Edmonton, Saskatoon, Regina and Winnipeg."

To keep things rolling smoothly the organizers have retained Walter Guly of Edmonton as drawmaster. Guly is drawmaster at the world's largest 'spiel, the 400-rink Winnipeg event.

It will cost each rink $50 to enter.

Aerial seed dusting tried

The soils and crop branch of the Manitoba department of agriculture recently conducted the first experiment in aerial seeding.

A single-engine plane with a modified dust attachment dropped rape seed by spraying it on about 10 acres in a few minutes.

The plane carried about 40 pounds of seed, flew low over the half-mile long field and spread a swathe of seed about 20 feet wide. With the first load the pilot flew twice across the field from south to north at a height of about 12 feet and travelled about 60 miles an hour. In actual seeding time three acres of land were completed in about a minute.

Department officials noted the seed tended to bunch and did not disperse well across the swathe. With his second load, the pilot flew higher and at almost full throttle—at 35 feet and 100 mph. He sped once across the field and laid a swathe almost 40 feet in width.

An extension department engineer said the aerial seeding might prove more effective on land recently plowed or looser than that seeded in the first experiment.

Today is yesterday's pupul.

Use Canadian cattle as breeding stock

Over 200 head of Canadian cattle to be used for breeding purposes were recently purchased by six Colombian cattle men who visited Canada, reports "Foreign Trade", fortnightly magazine of the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa. The purchasers were headed by Dr. Jose A. Cisternas, director of Agriculture for the province of Caldas.

This was the first time that live-stock breeders from Caldas have purchased dairy cattle, although Canadian Holsteins have gone to other parts of Colombia and have acquired a good reputation. The present purchase included 115 Holsteins, 45 Jerseys, 40 Ayrshires and 14 Red Polls. More cattle may be bought later.

Many people know that the statue of Liberty in New York harbor holds a torch in her upraised hand. But not many know what her left hand holds—the Declaration of Independence—or what lies at her feet—the broken chains of tyranny.

The Sports Clinic

(An official department of Sports College)
Conducted by Lloyd "Ace" Percival

The swimming season is now in full swing and thus the important point of water safety arises. Here is a list of rules which will help you avoid dangerous accidents in and around the water.

The best way to avoid water accidents is to avoid the things that cause these accidents.

1. Never let your pal kid or dare you into trying to swim farther or dive from a greater height than you are used to.

2. Always make sure you swim where people can see or hear you. Then, if you do get into trouble, there will be someone around to help you out.

3. No matter how strong a swimmer you are, you should never go for a long swim, unless you are accompanied by someone in a boat who is capable of pulling you to safety, if you get into trouble.

4. Never dive into water that you don't know all about. Go in without diving and sink feet first to make your investigation.

5. Take a tip and swim along the shore. Don't go out into deep water and then turn to come back. It's just as much fun and it's a hundred percent safer.

6. Never laugh and avoid chewing gum when in deep water—you may swallow water accidentally and start to choke.

7. If you like boating, learn to swim first. Never go out alone in a small boat if you can't swim. If children are in the boat or non-swimmers make sure you take along life preservers.

8. When using water wings or inner tubes, etc., if you can't swim, don't play in water out of your depth.

9. Make sure you go into the water slowly, taking a complete ducking or two before you do any swimming.

10. If you want to change seats in a boat pull in to shore and change there.

11. Obey the signs posted at your swimming pool or beach.

12. Start off the season slowly and get into condition before you attempt any long or fast swims.

13. Finally, remember this, you are your brother's keeper. We all have a definite responsibility to other people. So, whenever you are swimming or near the water, try to keep alert.
